JAMES: I remember there was the guys, we were in the liquor store and three black guys come, they had a Rhode Island car. They come in and they're lookin' around, they don't see me, I'm up above.

JOHN: Yeah.

JAMES: You know? And Stevie's behind the counter down there, somebody else is with me up here and we've got a slidin' window. I open the window and they're lookin' around, they're gettin' ready to stick the joint up.

JOHN: Yeah.

JAMES: So I picked up a shotgun and I'm aimin' it at them and the guy looked up and oh -- (Laughs)

JOHN: See ya later.

JAMES: And I put one in the chamber like, ptwww -- and he looked up and I'm aimin' and he says to the other guy, he says, Hey (Laughs) A bag of peanuts please.

JOHN: Yeah.

JAMES: (Laughs) And he --

JOHN: Six pack.

JAMES: One went this way, one went that way. When they first came in the store, they're lookin' around, they don't look up and Stevie is -- he's got a .45 behind him -- his back waitin' for them to make a move. We would've had to tell the kids that work there, say -- you've gotta say you shot these bastards.

JOHN: Mmm.

JAMES:                We were lucky they didn't try to do nothin'.
